Section 5 proposes that wages of 22 cents per hour shall be paid all motormen and 21 cents an hour to all conductors on the Richmond and Manchester and Interuban lines of the company, and that motormen on the Petersburg line shall receive 18 cents and conductors 17 cents per hour.

free trasportations at all times over all lines of the company.

Section 7 proposes that all orders causing extra expense to the employee shall not be effective until fifteen days notice shall have been given. The last section proposes to perpetuate the suggested general agreement until one or the other party thereto shall give notice is writing of a desire to change the same, and that said notice shall be given thirty lays before the end of any year of the greement.

days before the end of any year of the agreement.

To these proposals General Manager Huff on May 23d made reply, in the course of which he stated: The ratio of operating expenses to receipts is abnormally high, notwithstanding the saving effected by the consolidation of lines, and that the amount paid its motormen and conductors was out of proportion to that paid by other companies, being 21 per cent, of the total operating expenses. The demand of the men was equivalent to 24.6 per cent, over the present wages, and would increase the operating expense about $80,000 annually, which the company would be unable to pay. The demand is therefore refused. The general manager declares it unreasonable to expect twelve hours pay for nine hours work. To increase the wages of the men on the Petersburg road 25 per cent, as asked, would bankrupt the property. The company also refused to submit to a board of arbitration dismissal and suspension of employes, contending that it would place discipline in the hands of the arbitration boards, and leave officials powerless. The proposal that employes be given free transportation, over clais powerless. The proposal that employes he given free transportation over the interurban line is also refused. These are the principal points raised by the employes.

May Meet Wednesday.

May Meet Wednesday.

It was stated early this morning that no action would probably be taken by the street railway employes until after a meeting of the division, which would probably be held on Wednesday night. At that time it is considered probable that the employes will accept the proposition of the general manager to have export accountants examine the books and statement of the company, with a view to ascertaining its financial condition. This is believed to be the last resort. The presumption is that if examination discloses the correctness of the general manager's contention, another emination discloses the correctness of the general manager's contention, another proposition may be submitted. Certainly, if the men determine to have expert accountants verify the figures of the management, such action and the resultant examination will defer the walk-out for a few days. There is every indication that both sides are proceeding with the ulmost deliberation, and that both realize fully the seriousness of a strike.

Before submitting to the company the meral agreement, the employes sent is same on to the general board of the iternational Association of Street Railay Employes, and after keeping it for veral weeks it was returned with approach the local division is thus assured of the support of the general ormization in their demand and in the ruggle to secure it, if this prove necestary sum up the situation briefly, condi-are now critical, and only a re-on by one or the other parties can the astrike. The men will stand by organization, and the company will don its position as outlined by Gen-manager Huff. There is the bare-that a careful examination of the bany's income and expenses may con-on the employes that the company is de to grant its request, and that a proposition may be formulated, the optimistic expect either side to to.

It is said that the Virginia Passenger and Power Company is preparing for the impending strike, and that strike-breakers are already being assembled in the city, with a view to taking the places of the men in the event a strike is ordered. When the men went out ten months ago the company was wholly without preparation to meet the emergency. Now, however, the indications are that it is prepared or will be prepared to replace the men who walk out with others who are not without experience in operating cars.

marched, however, the Grays and the Blues beautifully arrayed in their expensive full dress uniforms. When they finally emerged and wound up at there are mory after the eventual day, it was a rather washed out lot of chaps who came to time.

Throughout it all the bands did heroic work. In the midst of the Madison Birect flood both the Grays and the Blues made such music as the surroundings would permit. One of the big drums got a lot of water in his head and wouldn't talk, but some of the horns sputtered out a tuneful, albeit melancholy, tone now and then. The red-jacketed bandmaster comported himself admirably under the circumstances, though the rain, like a bull, seemed to single out this red spot for some of its most penetrating work.

The soldier lads were not the only onea who suffered in the storm, however, Many thousands of people were in the cemetery and though many read the clouds aright and hidd them homeward betimes, many others were caught in the downpour. Bright spring dresses and bonnets, light summer suits and straw hats bore the evil effects of the rain but badly, and many a person reached home wet to the skin and thoroughly out of sorts.

DAMAGE TO WITES.

About 10:30 o'clock at night the storm resumed its work and more rain fell in large quantities. Some damage to wires resulted, but so far as is known not to any very considerable extent. The telephone wires were operating all right at midnight. The Western Union reported some little trouble to wires away from Hichmond. There was no special damage done to them here. At midnight the Postal find received no reports of injuries along the line.
